

Caution vs. Vision

Caution looks around;
vision gazes ahead.

Caution holds back;
vision surges forward.

Caution preserves
and embalms;
vision inspires
and vivifies.

Caution is timid
and shy;
vision is bold
and adventurous.

Caution is reluctant
to move;
vision is ready
for the journey.

Caution calculates
the cost;
vision will pay
the price.

Caution is careful
and safe;
vision takes
a chance.

Caution cares for
certitude and correctness;
vision vies for
plenitude and completeness.

Why do some equate religion
with caution?
I thought it's supposed to give us vision!

© Msgr. Walter Niebrzydowski

August 18, 1991

Fr-Walter@nyc.rr.com

www.fatherwaltersparish.org

